WISDOM ALAJEMBA

FRONTEND DEVELOPER

DEAR HIRING MANAGER,

I am applying in response to a role for a Front-End Developer, which I was elated to come across. I believe that I would fit the position perfectly and make the company more productive due to my ample coding experience and passion for never settling for mediocrity.

My greatest strengths exist with JavaScript and React, and I have under my belt knowledge about front-end libraries that breathe life into a web page. I am very comfortable with building the front-end part of a web application and strive to do so while implementing standards.

I believe in teaching oneself, that is why I am an avid learner of all things web since I am well aware that technology is never still and one needs to continuously learn to enable them to stay up-to-date.

I flow well with teams and even under pressure, and I possess a collaborative attitude. Communication is not a stumbling block of mine since I hold to the tenet that communication is key. My working attitude will undoubtedly make me an indispensable part of the team.

I'm open to discussing more about what I've worked on and provide detailed cases during my interview though I have provided some information in my resume. I sit back, hoping for a positive response, and if negative, then a reason will suffice.

SINCERELY,
WISDOM ALAJEMBA
